G 13

One sunny day I looked outside and found a flying carpet lying on the green grass. It had many beautiful colors. The colors had a rainbowish look. After looking at the colors, I decided to fly it to a place called Egypt. Egypt was a place that had a magical palace.

The flying carpet flew me through the Egyptian desert. It took us thirty days to get there. Finally, after all them hot days, we got there. Inside the magical palace, the flying carpet flew us through the building. We flew until we bumped into a fat guy.

"Who dares bumps into me like that?" the guy said. The carpet sped past the guy before he got the chance to catch us. Suddenly, we flew through the exit and then crashed into our house. I laughed and said I was never going to go on a rough trip again. After that I put the carpet in a safe place and I never forgot that trip again.

Score Point: 4

This response reflects proficiency in narrative writing skills. The response is organized and displays adequate facility in the use of language. There are very few errors in writing conventions. Although there is some detail and illustration of key ideas (rainbowish look, it took us thirty days, and the carpet sped past the guy), further development would be required for a higher score.
